

The Friday Music Showcase May 8th, 2009

2 Old Men & Some Songs.

Jerry Mungle & Earl Watts, regulars at the Wednesday Songwriters' Open Mic, teamed up to perform a fantastic two hour show that included lots of old favorites like The Wabash Cannonball and Gimme That Ole Time Religion as well as a lot of original material each has written.

It took a fair amount of persuading to get Earl & Jerry to commit to doing an entire show. We know the pressure of the commitment caused them to put in an incredible amount of work and practice to develop a really good show and become used to playing with each other. It paid off big-time last night!

The crowd was a hootin' an a hollerin' when they launched into their own version of Mama Don't Allow No... (Guitar Pickin', Mandolin Playin', Autoharp Playin', Spoon Playin', Music Playin') Round Here. Earl was swapping instruments as fast as he could and Jerry was playing faster and faster until they both broke up laughing with the rest of the room!

We can't wait to hear Two Old Men & S'more Songs!
